

FREE PEOPLE, FREE MARKETS

Spend an evening with America's founding principles. . .

...and get reacquainted with freedom's fundamentals

The quarterly FPFM series is a shock course in political economy. Past seminars have focused on the political part of political economy. The July 14 seminar will focus on the economy part of political economy.

This could be the most rewarding 3 hours you'll spend all year

You have a strong love of freedom. It's a natural part of being human. Yet too few Americans, of all ages, truly understand the fundamentals of a free society. "Free People, Free Markets," an evening seminar taught by Dr. Paul Prentice, provides a concise and stimulating primer on the subject. The seminar is sponsored by The Limited Government Forum, in keeping with our mission to advance civic and economic literacy in the Pikes Peak Region.

Dr. Paul Prentice

In less time than it would take to watch Monday Night Football, Dr. Prentice pulls together the basic principles of liberty and a free market, using materials from the great thinkers and achievers who shaped America. He presents the moral and philosophic case for free-market capitalism, emphasizes the critical role played by property rights and explains why economic and political freedom are interconnected. Free People, Free Markets will broaden and deepen your understanding of freedom, whether you're a student, teacher, businessperson or just an interested citizen.

July 14, 2009

From 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Vanguard School

1605-D S Corona Ave., Colorado Springs, CO.

DETAILS and REGISTRATION

Space is limited. Please reserve your seat now. Cost: $25
Contact Crystal Collette at crystal@limitedgovforum.org or 719-440-4838.

REGISTRATION: <https://www.signup4.net/Public/ap.aspx?EID=FREE81E>