

Syllabus
PSY 348/648: Personality Disorders in Adults and Older Adults
Summer 2009 / Fall 2009 / Spring 2010
Daniel L. Segal, Ph.D.

Course Description:

This course is designed to provide an in-depth approach to the understanding of personality disorders in adults with special emphasis on these interesting disorders in later life. Topics to be addressed include historical considerations of personality disorders, clinical presentations, diagnostic challenges, epidemiology, patterns of comorbidity, theoretical models, assessment strategies, and intervention models. The manifestations of personality disorders in the context of later life as well as special diagnostic and assessment issues among older adults are emphasized.

Instructor:

Daniel L. Segal, PhD
Professor, Department of Psychology
University of Colorado at Colorado Springs
Colorado Springs, CO 80933-7150

Instructor's Biography:

Daniel L. Segal, Ph.D. is a Professor in the Psychology Department at the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs (UCCS) where he teaches undergraduate and graduate courses in clinical psychology. He received his B.S in psychology from Tulane University in 1987, his Ph.D. in clinical psychology from the University of Miami in 1992, and he completed a post-doctoral fellowship in clinical geropsychology at Nova Southeastern University. At the University of Colorado, he served as the founding director of the CU Aging Center, which is the psychology department's training clinic in geropsychology. He trains practicum students at the Center and maintains a small private practice focusing on psychotherapy with older adults. His research interests include diagnostic and assessment issues in clinical psychology, suicide prevention and aging, and personality disorders across the lifespan. He has published over 70 journal articles and book chapters on these topics. His book (with co-authors Frederick Coolidge and Erlene Rosowsky) on Personality Disorders and Older Adults: Diagnosis, Assessment, and Treatment was published in 2006. He has recently edited two volumes in major reference works: one volume focused on personality assessment (in the Comprehensive Handbook of Psychological Assessment) and the other examined personality and everyday functioning (in the Comprehensive Handbook of Personality and Psychopathology). He serves on the editorial board of two journals (Behavior Modification; Clinical Case Studies) and is a Fellow of the Gerontological Society of America. At UCCS, he has received the Outstanding Teaching Award for the College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences in 2002 and the Outstanding Teaching Award for the UCCS campus in 2006. He welcomes YOU to his correspondence course!

Required Readings:

Upon your registration for the course, I will provide for you a packet of the three readings listed below:

Coolidge, F. L. & Segal, D. L. (1998). Evolution of the personality disorder diagnosis in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders. Clinical Psychology Review, 18, 585-599.

Millon, T., & Davis, R. D. (2000). Personality disorders in modern life. New York: Wiley. Chapter 1: Personality disorders: Current concepts and classical foundations.

Millon, T., & Davis, R. D. (2000). Personality disorders in modern life. New York: Wiley. Chapter 2: Contemporary perspectives.

How to Proceed with the Course:

Read the course requirements listed below. Next, notify me via email (dsegal@uccs.edu) so that I know you are registered. I will arrange for you to pick up the assigned readings which I will place in the bin right outside the door to my office. Next, read the assigned textbook and the assigned readings with these course requirements clearly in mind. Please contact me if you are unsure about the course requirements and I will gladly assist you.

Course Requirements, Grading, and Time Limit:

There are two required written assignments (see below). You submit both papers to me via email. There are no meetings for this class although if you want to visit me, we can easily set an appointment. Your course grade will depend on how clearly you have expressed your ideas in your written assignments, how well you have integrated and understood the concepts in the textbook and assigned readings (as expressed in your written assignment), and the extent to which your papers are grammatically correct. You have until the end of the semester in which you enrolled in this course to complete the two written assignments. However, please do not wait until the end of the semester to start working on this class. I prefer that you email me the first paper so that I can grade it and provide feedback to you BEFORE you email me the second paper. I will grade all written assignments within 2 weeks of receiving them via email. I will turn in your final grade within 1 week of receiving both assignments. At that time, I will report your grade to Extended Studies who will officially post your grade in the UCCS system.

ASSIGNMENT #1 –CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF THE TEXTBOOK

- I. Read the text “Personality disorders and older adults: Diagnosis, assessment, and treatment” and provide a critical analysis.
  - (A) The paper (including title page and analysis) should be 5 double-spaced pages total. That includes a 1 page Title Page and 4 full pages of the analysis. Short papers will be penalized. A little bit longer is ok; A little bit shorter is not.

- II. Title Page Requirements: Include: Title of your paper, Your name, Date, and Course name (PSY 348/648: Personality Disorders in Adults and Older Adults).

- III. How to complete the Book Analysis
  - (A) First, read the book in its entirety and provide a brief summary of the book.
  - (B) Next, describe and discuss the major themes of the book.
  - (C) Next, critique the book by answering the following questions: What did you think about the book? What are the strengths of the book? What are the weaknesses of the book? Describe ways the book could be improved or enhanced. How does the book add to your understanding of personality disorders in later life? How does the book relate to you personally? Discuss any insights or knowledge that applies to you or your family. What was the most significant or meaningful understanding that you got from reading the book? Describe why it was significant or meaningful.
  - (D) You must write each and every word of this paper by yourself. Therefore, information from any media (e.g., internet, etc.) or source besides your textbook or other assigned readings is strictly prohibited and you will receive an “F” on the paper if you use any prohibited sources.

- IV. Paper Requirements
  - (A) I prefer that you send me your paper via email (dsegal@uccs.edu). If email is not possible, you may send me a hard copy via the mail. The hard copy must be computer printed. Handwritten papers are not acceptable.
  - (B) Number your pages and double-space your document.
  - (C) Use a 12 point font (preferably Times New Roman).
  - (D) Use 1 inch margins (top, bottom, left, and right).
  - (E) Check your spelling and proofread the document carefully. Typos detract from the quality of your paper and will lower the grade you receive.

- (F) Submit your paper to me (email or hard copy) once it is checked and proofed.

ASSIGNMENT #2 – REACTION PAPER

For this assignment, compose one Reaction Paper chosen from the topics listed below. The paper (including title page and analysis) should be 5 double-spaced pages total. That includes a 1 page Title Page and 4 full pages of the analysis (double-spaced). Short papers will be penalized. A little bit longer is ok; A little bit shorter is not. Your paper should incorporate what you have learned from the readings, and show integration from multiple sources. More integration = a better grade. Clearly state your sources in your paper. Pick one of the following topics for your paper.

Reaction Papers Ideas (Choose one)

1. Describe and discuss the primary diagnostic issues for personality disorders among adults and older adults.
2. Describe and discuss the issue of comorbidity among personality disorders with other personality disorders as well as among personality disorders with other psychiatric disorders among adults and older adults.
3. Describe and discuss the primary theoretical models of personality disorders among adults and older adults.
4. Provide a detailed “personality analysis” of an adult or older adults whom you know well (may not be yourself) using the perspectives from your readings. That is, describe the nature and extent of the person’s personality disorder traits or symptoms, as well as your plans for conducting a clinical assessment of the person and implementing psychotherapeutic interventions. Your analysis must be supported by information from your readings and show integration from your sources.

Final Comment from Dr. Segal: I wish you the best of luck and success in this correspondence course and I hope you find it a valuable and enriching experience. Feel free to contact me at any time to clarify assignments or to discuss the material. I will do my best to help you succeed.
