Text: Calculus and Its Applications, Marvin Bittinger and David Ellenbogen, 9th edition

Homework: It is nearly impossible to master the concepts of this course without practice. Therefore, homework will be assigned and collected weekly. Each assignment will be worth twenty points. Approximately half of the points will be earned based on accuracy on randomly selected problems; the other half of the points will be earned on effort. Homework will count as 15% of your grade. This 15% may also include class activities and quizzes. I DO NOT ACCEPT LATE HOMEWORK -NO EXCEPTIONS!!! I will however, drop your lowest homework score. (Actually I don't drop the lowest score; I will count it as extra credit.)

Exams: There will be one quiz, three exams and a final during the semester. I will give you at least one week's notice as to the exact date of each exam as well as the material you will be responsible for on each test. Unless arrangements have been made prior to the exam, THERE WILL BE NO MAKE-UP EXAMS. MISSED EXAMS WILL BE SCORED AS A ZERO.
