4 pathways to student information...

FERPA Consent to Release
- Students may complete a FERPA Consent to Release to allow specified individuals to inquire about and discuss education records (academic and/or financial) with a university official.

The FERPA Consent to Release does not grant access to the student’s portal, give authorized payer access, nor does it give access to medical records or information.

CU Guest Access
- Students may authorize an online option for guests to view specific aspects of a student’s academic education record (final grades, class schedule, advisor information).

CU Guest Access requires the guest to have a social media account with Facebook, Google, or LinkedIn.
CU Guest Access does not authorize a guest to contact the university to request or discuss a student’s education (academic or financial) record.

Authorized Payer
- An online option for guests to view and pay a student’s bill. The student will create a Quikpay account for the guest with a username and password.

An authorized payer account only gives guests the ability to view and pay the student’s bill online. To discuss financial information with a university official, the student must complete the FERPA Consent to Release.

Health & Mental Health Records
- Student will review a release form at each visit.

All health and mental health records are considered private under Colorado state law. If a student wishes for any information from these records to be shared, the student must fill out a medical release form in the Wellness Center at the time of visit or following the visit. Release forms may not be completed prior to a student being seen. This release form is not the same as the FERPA Consent to Release.
