

International Affairs Announcement
Harvard News
May 23, 2025

Good afternoon,

International Affairs (IA) understands that the recent news about the revocation of Harvard University's Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP) certification may cause some concern. (Harvard sued the Trump administration to reverse this ban on enrolling and sponsoring international students). The SEVP certification for UCCS remains active. IA has no indication that it is at risk or under federal review.

We recognize that developments like this can be unsettling for our international community and understandably can cause worry. If you have questions or simply need someone to talk to, please contact the IA team at international@uccs.edu. We're here to support you.

You'll find updates on immigration-related topics at the IA Immigration Updates page. The CU System Federal Transition Updates website is also a reliable source of information.

Take care,
